

Yolanda Gilaberte

Yolanda Gilaberte Calzada is a dermatologist, currently head of the Dermatology Department at Miguel Servet University Hospital, vice-president of the Spanish Academy of Dermatology and Venereology, deputy editor-in-chief and former director of the journal Actas Dermosifiliográficas, honorary research professor at the University of Alcalá de Henares and associate professor of Dermatology at the University of Zaragoza, Spain.

Diploma of Specialization in Clinical Research Methodology by the Autonomous University of Madrid and Principal Investigator of the research group recognized by the Government of Aragon B18_17D: Photobiology and Dermatology.

Her training includes Dermatopathology at the Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore (USA), Pediatric Dermatology at the Hospital del Niño Jesús in Madrid and a research fellowship at Harvard's Wellman laboratories of Photomedicine in Boston (USA).

She is the author of more than 170 publications included in WOS (index h 22), 1 complete book and 15 book chapters. He directed 8 Doctoral Theses and her lines of research are non-melanoma skin cancer, photodynamic therapy, photoprotection, atopic dermatitis, dermatological infections and individualized treatments in dermatology.

She is member of the Spanish Academy of Dermatology, American Academy of Dermatology, European Academy of Dermatology and Venereology, Colegio Iberolatinoamericano de Dermatología, European Society of Photobiology and European Society of Photodermatology.